Proclamation of the Governor.

The President's call for 300,000 volunteers. o serve three years or during the war, to fill up the old regiments, makes the allotment to Kentucky of 12,000 to be raised.

This call must be met, either by volun eers, or by draft, at an early day. The 5th of January is set by the President as the time of ordering the draft This will give time for Congress to repeal the $300 exemption.

Volunteers will receive the liberal bounty and increased pay offered by the Govern ment; the conscript will not. Volunteers select their own company and regiment— the conscript will be assigned without re-gard to his wishes. The volunteer will be honored by his companions in arms and by his country—the conscript will not.

Recruiting officers will be detailed from the various regiments and assigned their recruiting posts by the Adjutant General. The proportion due from each connty, to equalize the service from the commencement of the war, will be made known by the Adjutant General, and notice thereof given. Each county will be required to furnish its allotment either in volunteers or conscripts.

Recruiting for the twelve months service will cease with the authorities heretofore given, so soon as the regiments forming are

Let no man say he would volunteer if it were for defense of the State or to serve in the State. Facts answer such declarations. For months you have been called on for such service, and failed to respond. This service is now closed to you.

Kentucky now is, and must continue to be exposed so long as there are rebel armies in the field. Guerrilla raids will cease when the rebel armies are broken up. The only se-curity to your State against invasions and raids, is the destruction of the rebel armies. Were our old regiments full even to the minimum, the days of rebellion would be numbered, and but few. The true defense of your State therefore is by filling the old regiments now in the field. This will give a crushing force, which must soon sweep the rebel armies from the field.

It's better for you, and for the service that you enlist in the old regiments. It secures you from much of the dangers of camp and field, and greatly increases your efficiency as a soldier. These regiments are now his toric. They are ennobled by deeds of brave suffering and lofty heroism. Their banners bear inscriptions of living memories. By London Fire and Life Insurance Company, being severally sworn, depose and say, and each for himself says, that the foregoing is a full, true, and correct statement of the affairs of the said Company—that the said Insurance Company is the bona fide owner of at least ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS of actual Cash Capital invested in Stocks and Bonds, or in Mortgages on unincumbered Real Estate, worth —— per cent. more than the same is mortgaged for; that the above described investments, nor any part thereof, are made for the shame the memory of your fathers, volunteer. ments, nor any part thereof, are made for the benefit of any individual exercising authority in Remember that Kentucky has never waited benefit of any individual exercising authority in the management of said Company, nor for any other person or persons whatever; that the mortgages above described have not been assigned, nor in any manner released or impaired by said Company; and that they are the above described officers of the said Insurance Company.

HENRY GRINNELL, Deputy Ch'm.

Speech of W. R. Kinney.

The following is the speech of W. R. Kin ney, Esq, of Henderson county, on the res olutions in relation to the death of Hon. J.

J. Crittenden: MR. SPEAKER: All nations, and every people nave esteemed it a high and solemn duty to hon extended country had an equal voice in the entering and perpetuate the remembrance of their illustrious dead. In obedience to this, the purest prompting of the human heart, we, the representatives of the grateful peeple of the proud old Commonwealth of Kentucky, have to the proud old Commonwealth of Kentucky, have to the proud old commonwealth of the business that brought as here, in order to pay obeisance to the memory, and mourn the untimely fall of our immortal Crittenden. Untimely did I say? Yes, Mr. Speaker, most untimely. For, though more days had witnessed his stay upon earth than are usually allotted to man, though the storms of the Union shaken by an earthquake, the brilliant sky surcharged with angry clouds from which issue thunders and lightnings of over threescore and ten years had wrink-led his brow and blanched his hair—though waring time had weakened his frame and bowed his noble form—though a life identified with the his-tory of the republic, prudent counsels in his coun-try's national council balls, and a character rerry's national codator lasts, and a character ro-nowned for unswerving rectifude and honor, will cause his name and deeds to illumine the historic page through all coming time, yet, still was his death most untimely, for he died when his coun-try most needed the great services he was so com-try most needed the great services he was so competent to render her.

If, Mr. Speaker, I were to attempt to rehearse the noble deeds which marked the life of him whose death we this day mourn, it would be a work of supererogation, for they are recorded upon the hearts of all assembled here—and, as to eulogy, none higher can be pronounced upon him than to assert the fact, that, atthough every page of his country's history, for near half a century, records his name, yet, so sputless was his page of his country's history, for near half a century, records his name, yet, so spotless was his character, that, in connection with the principles that actuated him, the tongue of slander itself was always mute. And, although with steady step, and true, he climbed the steeps of fame, until he stood upon the mountains crest, and claimed her gorgeous chaplet as his right, yet, so great was his magnanimity and so unselfish were his actions, that, toward him, the heart of envy had no bitterness, and the breath of calumny dared not attempt to tarnish the brightness of his lared not attempt to tarnish the brightness of his fair escutcheon.

One of the most prominent of the many virtues that adorned the character of Mr. Crittenden, was his devoted love of country. Having, if I may be permitted the expression, stood by the cradle of the republic, and grown with her to greatness, he loved her with all the energy of his great heart, and upon her altar offered all the homage of his soul. Whether on her stricken is yet full of energy, with a liveliness and fields when the savage tomahawk and scalping freshness of spirit that is truly wonderful knife gleamed on her broad prairies and in her dense forests, or in her national council halls, when Northern fanaticism coalesced with South fair edifice of freedom—unwaveringly, in sun-shine and through storm, he has borne her banner and upheld her power.

It was my fortune, Mr. Speaker, to have met with Mr. Crittendea but twice during his life. In a trust reposed in me by the Electoral College of Kentucky. On the evening of the day that South Carolina, by the adoption of her ordinance servatives would come to an end. EXTRACT FROM A THANKSGIVING SERMON.

When I look back to the condition of our beloved country but a few short years ago when I remember that on the 4th of July 851, the corner-stone of a new Capitol build ng was laid in Washington, and underneath was deposited an inscription written by Daniel Webster, in these words: "On this day the Union of the United States stands firm, their Constitution exists unimpaired growing every day stronger and stronger in the hearts of the American people;" when reflect on the peace, the prosperity, the ocial and civil happiness that pervaded the wide expanse of the American Union, pen etrating the obscurest dwelling in the re motest mountain, and valley, and prairie. and forest, under the benign protection of a Government that was felt by the good only as it blessed them with its shield, and se cured them the fruit of their labors, while i took from them nothing which it was not a privilege to bestow; when I contrast the asonishing progress of this people in numbers and wealth, in the arts and conveniences and uxuries of civilized life; when I bear in nind that the dreams of sages and philosoohers of former generations had at last be ome realities, and the desire of man been accomplished in the establishment of a government that governed just enough and even that was self-imposed; when I contemplate the fact that all parts of this and then when I see the fair face of this and a horrible tempest; when I see half million of my countrymen lying in their blood, ghastly sacrifices to the Moloch o war, families torn asunder and friendship broken forever, cripples and mourners goin about the street, when I hear the sound the cannon and the wail of the dying, an know that a million of my brethren are nov in arms for each other's destruction, I fee that the men who broke the peace of thi country and plunged it into this fratricida strife, were guilty of INGRATITUDE mor base and cruel than God or man ever sav before. It was ingratitude to man: it was viler ingratitude to God. But we who cling to the Union as to the ark of our safety with cheerful trust in God, will thank his for mercies past and future good implore We bless Him that our Government still lives. We will stand by it with God and right on our side, and if it falls, which ma heaven forbid, we will not survive the wreck in which the hopes of freedom will go down forever. Lord Palmerston, the Premier of England has entered on his eightieth year. His birth-day was October, 1784. HEAD-QUARTERS KENTUCKY VOLUNTEERS, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,

FRANKFORT, November 28th, 1863. GENERAL ORDERS. No. 6 For the information and guidance of all

The President of the United States having issued a call for 300,000 volunteers, the quo ta assigned to Kentucky amounts to 12,701. This number should be raised by volunteering, for which time is given until the fifth day of January next. Should the enlistments not amount to the required number by that day, a draft will be enforced to make up the deficit.

The accompanying list shows the exact number each County will be required to furnish. Many of these sub districts have already exceeded their proportions, and consequently no assignment is now made them. The enlistments will be entirely for those Regiments now in the field, and for the space of three years or during the war. A premium of $15 for each new recruit, or $25 for each "Veteran," will be paid the party producing him, as soon as the recruit reaches the place of general rendezvous. Bounties of $302 to new recruits, and of $402 to those who have served at least nine months, will be paid in convenient installments, the first of which amounting, with advance pay, to $75, will be given the recruit on his arrival at the camp of general rendezvous at Louis-ville, and before his departure to the field. An earlier expiration of the war will still leave the recruit entitled to his full bounty. Details from every Company in the service will act as Recruiting Agents in the various sub-districts. Entire harmony of action exists between Maj. Sidell, U. S. A., acting Assistant Provost Marshal General for Kentucky at Louisville, his District Provost Marshals, and the State authorities.

It behooves every man in Kentucky to labor for the accomplishment of this common good, to assist in enlisting recruits sufficient to obviate the draft, which is sure to follow if we are delinquent in this duty. Let every one lend himself to this patriotic purpose— let every neighborhood respond in the most triumphant manner to this great moral and physical obligation. Let every County determine to be among the first to satisfy demand of justice, equality and law. Those noble districts which have made records so proud as to exempt them from the requirenents of this order, may write their history in still brighter colors by continuing their contributions to our ranks.

Let it be remembered that, in some manner, our quota must be raised—that volunteers receive large bounties and drafted men receive none—that for every new recruit returned to the Provost Marshal $15, and for every one who has served nine months $25 will be paid the party producing him; that to the fifth of January, 1864, only is given the privilege of filling our quota by voluntary enlistments, and that then will follow an inexorable draft bearing in its train neither bounty nor honor.

By order of the Governor JOHN BOYLE, Adjutant General of Kentucky
